All-Star Won 5-3 by Nationals

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer
CLEVELAND (AP)—San Francisco's batted Willie Mays stole two bases, hit in two runs and scored two in the National League 5-3 victory over the American League today in baseball's 34th All-Star game.

The Giants center fielder tied Stan Musial's record with his 20th hit—a single in the third—and sent his team in front 4-3 with an RBI in the fifth. The National League added an insurance run in the eighth when Bill White of the Cardinals singled, stole second and scored on a hit by Ron Santo of the Cubs.

The victory cut the American League's edge in the series to a single game. The American has won 17 of the All-Star games, lost 16 and tied one.

A crowd of 44,160 saw the American League outthrust their rivals, 11 to 8, but the Nationals won on bolder play. The Nationals stole three bases and executed three double plays, one to end the game.

The losing pitcher was Jim Bunning of the Detroit Tigers, who replaced starter Ken McBride in the fourth and gave up no hits and one unearned run in two innings. The winner was Larry Jackson of the Chicago Cubs, who gave up four hits and two runs in pitching the third and fourth innings.

The highlight of the Americans' play was the fine pitching of Dick Radatz of the Boston Red Sox, who struck out five in the eighth.

New and Larger News Type Bought by Star

The three type specimen shown below dramatize how with the passing years the business of reading your daily newspaper is being made easier for aging eyes.

Each time Hope Star changes the brass matrices for news type on its three linotypes it costs Star Publishing Co. $1,500. Back in June 1942 our installation of the first automatic Teletypesetter Circuit compelled us to buy new linotype "mats" so we would be synchronized with other cities on the circuit. This was the 7-point Teletypesetter face, on an 8-point slug, in a column 12 ems wide. Its specimen appears on the left below.

By January 1960 the standard column width for American dailies had shrunk from 12 to 11 ems (the present column size), and The Star did two things: (1) It changed to an 11-em column, and at the same time purchased a new and larger type (the present one — 8-point Corona on a 9-point slug. Specimen is in center below.

Next October 13 the national news wires — Associated Press and United Press International — recognizing the 11-em column as the new American standard, are changing their automatic wire transmission standards to permit use of larger news type in the narrow column — and for that occasion Hope Star has purchased, and now has in the house, the 9-point Corona face on a 10-point slug — the specimen appearing below at the right.

The specimen at right, therefore, shows how your reading matter will look in Hope Star on Monday, October 14 (after the wire change-over of Sunday, October 13). If we have the new "mats" in our house why don't we use them right away, you ask? Well, they would work on local news, but not on the wire, being too big for present transmission standards. Therefore we would be using one size type for local news and another size for wire news — and the newspaper's appearance would be fouled up. Furthermore, if just one of the larger "mats" happened to get into the linotype handling wire news the mechanical department would be in trouble. So our target date is Monday, October 14 — and not before.

Here are the three type specimen — 1942 — 1960 — 1963.

This is how Hope Star's news matter type looked from the inauguration of the automatic Teletypesetter wire in 1942 until 1960. It is Mergenthaler's Teletypesetter 7-point face on an 8-point slug, set in the old wide-style 12-em column. It was reproduced for The Star by Eter Printing Co. of Washington, which purchased one of the old fonts.

In 1960 Hope Star reduced its widths to 11 ems, the new standard for American newspapers, and at the same time increased the type size to 8-point on a 9-point slug. This is Mergenthaler 8-point Corona on a 9-point slug the news type we are now using and will continue to use until next October.

October 13 the wire services will switch to a new standard of transmission allowing use of a still larger body type — of which this is a specimen: Mergenthaler Corona 9-point on a 10-point slug. We have these new matrices on hand for all our linotypes, but they can't be used until the wire change in October.

18-Year Hunt Leads Son to Hit-and-Run Driver Who Killed His Father

TOMPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—"I wanted to do it worse than anything in my life," said Welby Lee.

He spoke after 18½ years of dogged search resulted in the arrest of a man on murder charges in connection with the hit-and-run death of Lee's father.

"I just kept thinking that someday I would hit the right spot."

Newt Lee, 64, was killed on New Year's Eve 1944 by a car that hit him as he was crossing a road in a driving rain. A witness said Lee's grandfather — then 16, said the car stopped, the driver walked back to look at the body, returned to the auto, drove a few feet, returned to the scene, then roared away.

The only clue was an automobile bumper guard.

"I was very close to my father. We were in the lumber business together. I was determined to find those men," said Welby Lee Monday night after the arrest in Indianapolis on second-degree murder charges of Grover Jones, 54, a handyman.

Witnesses said two men were in the car. Lee said, "We know who the other man was. He will be taken into custody later."

"I would estimate I spent a total of four years' time in the search," said Lee, 50. "I traveled 70,000 miles, mostly in Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and Tennessee, talking to people—all kinds of people."

"I hit lots of dead ends but never thought of giving up. Then, in January 1962, we hit the right trail. An in-law of Jones put us on it. For 18 months I gathered evidence."

"I walked into the authorities' office in Clay County, Tenn., and gave them a book with 153 pages of evidence. I realized that after 18 years, a half job just wouldn't do."

Indianapolis police said Tennessee authorities traced the sale of the bumper guard to Jones.

Lee said a grand jury in the Tennessee county—just across the line from this southern Kentucky town—indicted Jones last month.

4th Session Camp for Girl Scouts

For the first time since it was built, Camp High Point, the camp operated by the Conifer Girl Scout Council, will run a fourth session, from July 21 through August 3, in order to offer to both Girl Scouts and non-Scouts in this area the opportunity to spend two fun-filled weeks in the foothills of the Ouachita Mountains near Mena. These girls will enjoy an outdoor program of swimming in the creek, hiking, canoeing, learning new camp skills and making new friends.

Miss Gail Gilbert, camp director, has just announced that there are 20 places left in this session. These will be filled by the first twenty girls between 10 and 17 who register, call 772-1122 or write or come by the Council office, 601 Pecan, Texarkana, to pick up the camp registration form.

India Aid Turns Others to Reds?

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—Small Asian nations fearing India and watching the West build up the Indian army will be forced to turn to Communist China for refuge, President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan says.

Ayub Khan told a civic reception Monday that India has designs against smaller nations. He said the West failed to realize "the realities of the situation" when it agreed to strengthen India against Chinese aggression.

Cotton Crop This Year Is Smaller

WASHINGTON (AP)—A smaller cotton crop than last year was indicated both nationally and in Arkansas Monday by the Agriculture Department's July estimate of acreage planted to the crop.

Nationally the estimated 14,856,000 acres is about 10 per cent less than 1962's 16,293,000.

In Arkansas the new 1963 estimate is 1,260,000, compared to 1,403,000 last year.

The Agriculture Department did not make an estimate of production, but the estimated acreage could produce about 13 million bales, compared with 14,700,000 last year.

Even this reduced crop, however, would add to existing surpluses unless markets improve.

Total domestic and foreign requirements for the current market year have been forecast at 11,800,000 bales. If the demand remains the same, the estimated 1963 crop would produce a surplus of 1,200,000 bales.

President Kennedy has urged legislation to better cotton's competitive position, particularly with domestic textile mills, but wide differences of opinion in the industry as to what should be done and congressional reluctance to act in the face of such incision has stalled his program.

1 Killed, 21 Hurt in Lone Star Blast

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP)—One worker was killed and 21 others injured Monday in an explosion on a munitions line at the Lone Star Ordnance plant, the government shell-loading plant 15 miles west of Texarkana.

William Travis McNatt, 19, of Texarkana, was killed. Otis Charles Hooks, 28, of Hooks, Tex., and Garland Keith Watson, 22, of Texarkana were seriously injured.

Details of the explosion were swallowed up in a tight security clamp.

Day and Zimmerman, Inc., prime contractor for the plant, would not comment on the cause of the blast.

A. A. Roland, general manager of D and Z, said one section of a building was destroyed. He said it was on a "conventional production line." The type of ammunition being loaded was classified, he said.

Newsman and photographers were barred from the blast area and employees of the plant were warned not to give information to newsmen. The names of the injured were not released until several hours after the explosion.

Roland declined to discuss the matter further.

One employee, arriving at a hospital with some of the injured, said, "It was one hell of an explosion." He declined to say more.

Others injured were:

Lee Roy Blanks, 19, of New Boston, Tex.; David William Ferguson, 29, of Texarkana; Marshall Saxton, 22, of New Boston; Vonda Shaver, 19, New Boston; Robert Nathan Shirley, 22, New Boston; Patsy Ann Starkey, 24, Texarkana; Glenn Thompson, 21, Texarkana; Alexander Benjamin, 24, Atlanta, Tex.;

Assassin Fails to Make Escape

PARIS (AP)—Police disclosed today that the man who tried to assassinate ex-Gen. Raoul Salan failed in an attempt to escape with five Secret Army men Sunday from Fort St. Martin de Ile.

Philippe Castille, who killed the wrong man when he fired a bazooka shell into Salan's Algiers office in 1957, led the attempt. Salan, then French military chief of Algeria, is serving a life term for leadership of the secret army.

2½ Inches of Rain Falls in This Area

If the rain that struck this area late Monday afternoon seemed to be a cloudburst — well, it was.

It lasted about 45 minutes and the official total reported by the Fruit & Truck Experiment Station was 2.42 inches, which is at the rate of 3 inches an hour.

Downtown streets were flooded. But it was a welcome experience — farm crops and city lawns this summer being just one jump ahead of a full-blown drought.

Greek King in Trouble in London

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Greek King Paul and Queen Frederika arrived today for a state visit plagued by Communists, anarchists, pacifists and other agitators.

Police beat back an attempted demonstration outside Buckingham Palace.

Met at Victoria Station by Queen Elizabeth II, the royal party drove in state carriages to the palace. Britain's tightest peace-time security guard kept the queen and her visitors from even seeing the demonstrators who tried to mar the welcoming procession.

Police beat back youthful pickets as the Greek king and queen entered Buckingham Palace to begin the four-day state visit.

"We aren't provoking violence," protested Kenneth Brown, 18, a student. "We just want to picket the palace."

The most determined effort to spoil the royal arrival was at the side of the palace.

"About 50 of our people wanted to stage a demonstration outside the palace," said Terry Chandler 23, who described himself as chairman of a Save Greece Now Committee.

"But the police roughed us up and wouldn't let us," he said. The nearest thing to an incident between the visiting royal couple and demonstrators came in a side street near the station.

China Reds Quit Parley at Moscow

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet and Chinese delegations to the Moscow-Peking reconciliation conference recessed their meeting without explanation today. Informed quarters said the suspension was only temporary and that there was no rupture.

Communist Chinese negotiators had failed to show up for the day's session after the Soviet Union fired new charges at Red China and warned of "dangerous consequences." They spent their day working at the Chinese embassy.

One source said the Chinese in initial talks had again proposed a world conference of Communist parties to settle the dispute, but advocated a voting procedure on a population basis which would give China the dominating voice.

The Soviet reaction could be surmised as totally negative.

The interruption in the ideological talks between the two Communist giants came as Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, returning from a meeting with Premier Khrushchev, predicted Soviet relations with the West will improve.

The Soviet Communist party central committee earlier today accused the Chinese of deliberately aggravating Soviet-Chinese relations at a time when the two countries are discussing ideological differences.

At the mansion in the Lenin Hills section of Moscow where the talks have been held, Western correspondents noted the usual signs of pre-meeting activity today.

But at 11 a. m., more than an hour after the talks usually begin, there was still no sign of the Chinese. Soviet officials began leaving, and then police said the Chinese would not be coming.

The Chinese absence aroused speculation that they were awaiting Peking's reaction to the new Soviet attack. Some observers thought the Chinese might call an end to the sessions in retaliation.

The Soviet Communist party Central Committee accused the Chinese of deliberately aggravating Soviet-Chinese relations at a time when the two countries are discussing ideological differences.

The Soviet blast came shortly after Khrushchev snubbed the Moscow meeting with the Chinese and conferred in Kiev with Spaak on easing cold war tensions. The Chinese militantly oppose Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence policy, underlined by his meeting with Spaak.

The new Soviet party statement denounced speeches at a rally in Peking Sunday in support of five Chinese expelled from the Soviet Union. They had distributed reprints in the Soviet Union of the Chinese Communist party's long denunciation June 14 of Khrushchev's policies.

The Soviet statement said speakers at the rally tended to create "moods unfriendly to the Soviet people, to aggravate the situation in the course of negotiations between the representatives of the Soviet Union and China."

"The impression is created that a deliberate campaign is being carried on to aggravate seriously."

Sgt. York Is in Hospital

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Sgt. Alvin C. York, famed World War I Medal of Honor winner, rested comfortably today at Veterans Hospital here where he was admitted Monday for a checkup and observation.

A hospital spokesman said York, 75, was "not seriously ill." York, in ill health since suffering a light stroke in 1949, has been bedfast in recent years at his rural home in Pail Mall, Tenn.

Respiratory and heart ailments hospitalized York here for several days during the Easter holiday.

York was decorated in 1918 after he killed 25 German soldiers and captured 132 prisoners in a single day.

Gas 'Blast' Routine for Pipe Line

A reported "gas explosion" in a utility line on the north side of town about 7 o'clock this morning turned out to be a routine construction operation on a major pipeline not connected with local service.

The local office of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. said today the incident occurred on the Texas-Illinois Pipeline Co.'s system where it crosses the old DeAnn road. Texas-Illinois was "blowing down" its pipeline to reduce pressure in order to connect up with a new pipeline crossing on Red River near Fulton.

"We got no advance notice of their action, and as Arkla had a domestic line within two blocks of the incident naturally we were alarmed at first, but really, there was nothing to it," said an Arkla spokesman.

Long 4th Sets Death Toll High

CHICAGO (AP) — The final count of the nation's traffic accidents during the long Independence Day weekend showed 556 persons killed, a record for the four-day holiday.

The death toll, reported over a 102-hour period from 6 p. m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday, topped the previously four-day Independence Day high of 509 set in 1961. The National Safety Council had estimated a death toll of 550 to 650.

The holiday total compares with an average of 100 traffic fatalities per day during the first five months this year.

Goldberg to Decide Rail Strike Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy proposed today that Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg be empowered to decide all issues in the dispute between the railroads and the operating unions over work rules.

J. E. Wolfe, chief negotiator for the railroads, told newsmen of Kennedy's proposal at the conclusion of a White House parley of both sides in the dispute.

He said that if both sides accept, the work rules will not be put into effect until Goldberg has made his binding report.

Wolfe said the report would be made before the Supreme Court convenes for its 1963-64 term in October.

Wolfe said he thinks the date would be prior to Sept. 30.

He said both sides to the dispute have until 10 a. m. Wednesday to "carefully consider the proposal."

He said the carriers will give the President's proposal the "most profound consideration." "More than anyone we are interested in a peaceful conclusion to this dispute which could undoubtedly turn into a national catastrophe," Wolfe said.

Goldberg, a former labor lawyer, was appointed to the Supreme Court after serving as Secretary of Labor in Kennedy's Cabinet.

DOROTHY DIX

HIS LOVE TURNED TO HATE
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: My husband loved me before we married and hates me now. We went together almost two years. Marriage and babies were all we talked of. The only thing that kept us from marrying was the fact that we couldn't afford it.

Then we had to get married and, when I was three months pregnant, my husband threw me out of the house, said he didn't like being married and didn't want the baby or the responsibility of being a father.

I realize he is only 20 but other fellows his age and younger, find jobs, accept their responsibilities and make good husbands. Why can't he?

When his parents, who are on my side, try to talk to him, he yells "Mind your own business!" We have been separated a month. I don't believe in divorce but am only 18 and jobless. What can I do?—Very Upset

Dear Very Upset: If "marriage and babies" were all you and your husband talked about for two years before you were even wedded, no wonder the reality of the subject came as rather an anti-climax to him. It's been stated so many times, not only by me, but also by far wiser people, that in today's culture, the ages of 16 and 18 are much too young to think seriously about marriage. Apparently our words fall on deaf ears. But your unhappy situation proves our point once again.

Patience with your immature mate, and a complete acceptance of your own responsibility are your two most valuable assets. You are fortunate in having the alliance of your in-laws. They must be very fine and fair-minded to admit that their son is in the wrong, and I imagine that they will continue to help you in every possible way. I assume you are living under their roof.

Your marriage is worth an all-out effort to save, especially since a child is involved. But one sided as this effort may seem to be at the moment, it needn't remain so. Why don't you have a talk with your minister or doctor? They undoubtedly could exert more influence over your husband than either you or his parents because they represent a neutral point of view. In spite of his selfish attitude — or rather I should say because of it — he is a very unhappy and troubled young man. He needs help as much as you do.

Dear Helen: My mother led a starved social life when a girl and is making me suffer as she did. I was invited to a school dance by a boy in our class. Mama said I could go if we had a chaperon. My girl friend was coming with her date, now she's backed out. So did the chaperon. My date said, "Never mind, I'll get my chum to come and bring his date." When I told Mama she blew up and forbids me to go. I'm sunk! Why are mothers so suspicious?—Can't Understand-Mother

Dear Can't-Understand-Mother: If mothers are truly suspicious, it's generally because they remember their own youth all too well. But you say that your mothand ninth innings.

The National League drew first blood in the second when Mays walked on five pitches by McBride, stole second and scored on a single through the hole by Dick Groat.

The American Leaguers snapped back to tie the score 1-1 in their half. Leon Wagner, the Angels' left fielder, greeted O'Toole with a single and scored on a single by McBride.

Tommy Davis opened the National's third with a single to center and scored on a sharp single by Mays—the 20th in All-Star competition for the San Francisco center fielder. Mays stole second again and came home on a single by Ed Bailey of the Giants.

The Americans came right back to tie the score 3-3 with two runs in the bottom of the third off Jackson.

Little Albie Pearson, the center fielder of the Angels, doubled off the left center field fence and scored on a single by Frank Malone of the Red Sox. Malone went to second on an infield out and himself came home on a single to center by Earl Batley of the Minnesota Twins.

An unearned run sent the Na-or was socially starved as a girl, so I suspect that what you consider "suspicion" is really wholehearted concern for your best interests.

Ordinarily, school dances are chaperoned by parents and members of the faculty. Why don't you suggest that your mother volunteer her services to the dance committee? Her presence might cramp your style a bit, but at least you'll get to the dance and she'll be able to see firsthand whether her suspicions are justified.

Dear Helen: In my capacity as a minister I have been asked to conduct a class at the local YWCA for eighth and ninth grade girls on petting and its dangers from a spiritual as well as physical point of view. I would appreciate hearing from you on the subject.—Rev. J. W. Curry, St. Joseph, Mo.

Dear Reverend: Eighth and ninth grade girls range in age, I believe from 13 to 16 so you have a golden opportunity to make a "hard sell" to the group most likely to buy your line. St. Paul will help you, especially in his letters to the Corinthians, plus your own understanding of adolescents and the sexual pressures they are subjected to from within and outside themselves. My views on the subject are described in detail in my leaflet, "The Petting Problem," which you may have by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Union Complaint Filed in P.B.

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Earl F. Yeargan, international representative for the Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Employees Union, said Monday he had filed a complaint with the National Labor Relations Board charging that the Greyhound Post House, a restaurant at Pine Bluff, had interfered in an upcoming election on union representation. The election will be Wednesday.

meets today with top officials of the industry and five operating unions.

Unless a definite plan of action can be advanced, all signs point to the beginning of a strike by 12:01 a.m. EDT Thursday. That is when the railroads will put into effect their controversial new work rules designed to eliminate nearly 40,000 railway jobs.

The president's personal pitch to the company and union executives comes after a breakfast table discussion of the situation with Democratic congressional leaders.

The four-year dispute over new work rules bounced back into the President's lap Monday when Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz made a final report on the futile attempts of his department to bring about a settlement despite day and night efforts.

Kennedy on June 15 set a July 10 deadline for company and union representatives to resolve their differences. Terming a strike and its effect on the nation's economy "intolerable," Kennedy has said he would seek legislative action if needed to prevent a rail tie-up.

The railroads claim that jobs they describe as unnecessary are costing $600 million a year. The unions claim the work force is efficient and should be maintained at its present number for safe operation of the trains.

In the event of a strike, the unions have offered to continue working on passenger and commuter trains under the old work rules and to move troops, military supplies "or food for the public welfare to prevent public distress" if the need is certified by the President. They said their wages under such circumstances would go to a charitable organization.

James J. Reynolds, Assistant Secretary of Labor and the government's key mediator in the dispute, said today's meeting was called to impress on the group "the seriousness of the situation and to get from them one last expression before any legislative action is taken."

Reynolds and Wirtz also were invited to the meeting in the President's office.

As the leaders were summoned to the session, two large questions loomed:

1. If legislation is sought, for what will the administration ask?

2. Can action be taken in time—legislative or otherwise—to avert a strike?

On the first question, no one in an official capacity would venture an opinion—Wirtz, Reynolds, or Pierre Salinger, the President's press secretary.

One informed congressional source, however, asserted that if any legislation is sought it would be designed to deal solely with the railroad crisis.

Speculation in general continued to center on the possibility of compulsory arbitration, seizure of railroads, or some combination of the two.

On the question of whether a strike can be averted at this late date, prospects, legislatively at least, were not bright.

The most hopeful note on this score came from Sen. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., who said Capitol Hill "can move pretty darn fast" to meet an emergency. However, even he conceded it would take the Senate about a week to complete hearings on any railroad legislation.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said a railroad strike lasting 30 to 60 days would be "most serious" because it would hamper exports more than im-the Soviet-Chinese relations, disregarding the dangerous consequences of this policy."

The statement added that despite "such unfriendly actions," the Russians will do everything possible "not to deepen the existing differences" with the Chinese. This clearly indicated that the Russians do not intend to suspend the talks with the Chinese in the Lenin Hills villa overlooking Moscow.

No news leaked out of these talks between teams headed by Mikhail Suslov, top Soviet ideological expert, and Teng Hsiao-ping, his Chinese counterpart. Western observers have been convinced since before the talks started that they would produce no significant agreement.

Spaak refused to give details of his talks with Khrushchev in Kiev 500 miles away.

The Belgian statesman, a former secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, said, "It was a very good talk." Returning to Moscow, he described the meeting as "warm and friendly."

Television films of the meeting showed Spaak and Khrushchev laughing and gesturing in the garden of the premier's villa. Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the meeting was "marked by an atmosphere of sincerity and mutual understanding."

Khrushchev did not accompany Spaak to Moscow and there was no indication when he would return from Kiev.

Although Spaak predicted an improvement in East-West relations, a Soviet commentator kept up the cold war dialogue. Speaking over Moscow radio, Valentin Zorin accused the United States of trying to spoil the atmosphere for the U.S.-British-Soviet nuclear test ban talks opening in Moscow Monday.

ports. Future business could be lost also, he said, if overseas customers became accustomed to buying elsewhere.

The Post Office Department began preparing for the worst by issuing a warning of curtailed service in the event of a rail strike.

Noting that the railroads still are the chief carrier of most domestic mail, the department said that first class mail would be moved by substitute transportation as much as possible.

All other mail would be restricted, the department said, and would go no farther than 150 miles from its point of origin.

You can't do business from an empty wagon! That is what the sign says and it also goes on to tell you that in the old days the Peddler, once the mainstay of distribution in the United States, knew this was important. His wagon creaked under the weight of housewares as he started out on Monday morning and rattled home empty on Saturday night. Yes, sir, you have to have the merchandise if you expect to sell!

Naturally you might know this is leading up to the stock of Fall merchandise we are getting in daily at Raley's. Every morning the postman with his wagon arrives early and he leaves with it empty. Consequently our hangers are filling up and you should see them, the first are always prettiest!

The cranberry red Minx Modes knit dress, a cotton washable and wearable, one piece frock that looks like the finest Acrilan Acrylic knit on the market, sizes 5 to 15 and the price only $14.95. The Jo Junior costume, a basic dress with contrasting jacket, the most for the least, $17.95. A three piece suit, jacket, over-blouse and skirt, in lush colors, just right to wear NOW... $29.95.

Other fabrics in our Fall collection are Arnel Seersucker, Woven Cord, Thomas Cottons, Dacron and Cotton Blends in Glen Plaid, Solid Colors and patterns.

We also have brand new Fall colors in our Tali Fino Cotton Knits, designed by Jane Colby, they fit to perfection and you will look and feel smart wherever you happen to be vacationing. Jackets and shirts to mix and match. The pants are $5.98, the jackets and blouses are $2.98 and up. We have large as well as small sizes, too.

Don't forget to look over our sale rack, they have some very fine bargains, not all sizes or colors, but every garment reduced to sell.

For the newest in any type of merchandise for women, we invite you to shop today and remember the place, Raley's Style Shoppe, Hope's House of Fashion.

bers are urged to attend.

There will be an informal supper at the Hope Country Club sponsored by the Hope Womens Golf Association, catered by Mrs. Ruth Rettig, Thursday, July 11, at 7:30 p. m.

4-H Club Meets
At DeAnn
The DeAnn 4-H Club met on July 1 in the Community Center. President Dick Willis called the meeting to order, and the secretary, Judy Samuels, read the minutes. Pledges to the American and 4-H Club flags were led by Billy Samuels and Charles Arnold.

Judy Samuels gave the devotion, followed with the Lord's Prayer recited in unison. Bruce Burke led the group in singing several songs. The club voted to pay $8 on the clubhouse debt and decided to have a program and ice cream social at 8 p. m. July 13 for their parents and friends in the community.

Dick Willis told about his recent trip to Camp Clearfork, and Jimmy Carver reported on his trip to Harding College. Pastoralization was the subject of a talk made by Charles Arnold, who also reported on Activity Day held recently in Hope.

Mrs. W. N. Burke demonstrated how to make kitchen wall plaques. The meeting was adjourned until August 5, when the club will meet with Judy and Billy Samuels.

Hope High '53 Class Reunion
The Hope High School Class of '53 had a reunion Friday night, July 5 at the Hope Country Club. Red and white streamers decorated the clubhouse.

Everyone enjoyed visiting with friends with whom they had graduated 10 years before. A highlight of the occasion was a telephone call the group received from Jesse Duke and Howard Thornton in California.

The serving table was covered with a white cloth over a red background. Chips and dips, white cake squares decorated with "Class of '53" in red, and

"So long, Chief—Mom says we're going to get a tepee in Arkansas, where electricity does the heavy work in summertime."

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP)—Several hundred couples who thought they were married in Arkansas are finding out they aren't.

For at least 11 of them, the solution is simple: get married.

Four couples will tie the knot Saturday night at Benton. Seven others will have a mass wedding Sunday at Star City.

In April, the Social Security Administration announced that it would not pay benefits to wives or widows who were not legally married. It pointed out that a 1941 Arkansas law said a marriage was null and void if the bridegroom was less than 18 years old or the bride was younger than 16.

Since the announcement many licenses and birth certificates have been checked by worried couples.

James R. Merryman, claims supervisor for the Little Rock Social Security Administration office, said his office had received hundreds of telephone calls and while accessories. The hostess presented the bride and her mother corsages of white mums which were pinned on by Mrs. E. S. Conway and Mrs. Queen Hughey. Mrs. Captoria Smith presided over games and extended household hints to the bride-to-be.

The honoree received many lovely and useful gifts.

SHORTY A 2-Minute Short Story

A TWIST OF HIS WRIST

By ROBERT J. SLOAN

It was as inevitable as day following night that it was bound to happen. The only question was—when? It had been brewing for a long time, but had to come to the boiling over point only within the past two minutes.

Insults were hurled back and forth and as that seemed to run its course without victory for either man, only one thing was left. The hand of one man tossed a cup of wine in the face of the other man. Now, according to tradition, there could be no turning back. The die had been cast and it appeared that neither man had the slightest regret of the circumstances that for one of them could mean a very short future. Either man could have turned tail and run, but neither ran away.

Anthony Peter Angelo Campanino intended that the two men brandish stilettos as they squared off for a duel to the death. Glaring points of fire flashed from hate-filled eyes and animal-like snarls tumbled from between curled-back taut lips. No quarter would be asked and certainly none would be given.

Tony Campanino, despite the fact that he was an underworld vice and gambling overlord, abhorred witnessing violence in any form. He could end this upcoming battle in a moment with a slight twist of his pudgy, hairy wrist. But a strange fascination for the serious drama unfolding before his eyes stayed his hand. Tony had a private opinion that most duels in the history of the world had been instigated by women and more often than not, women unworthy of a single drop of the blood that was shed.

Thus Tony felt like a god. He was master of the fate of at least one man. He could nullify what ever evil some unworthy woman had caused.

The duelists circled in the fashion of two cats.

"Not just from Arkansas," he said, "but all over from people who got married in Arkansas and then moved to another state."

He said letters had come from Texas, California, Missouri and many other states.

Several couples have had second ceremonies.

All-Stars Play Today in Cleveland

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The favored National League was prepared to go all out in today's All-Star game with the leading American League as the series reverted to the original one game plan after four years of double helpings.

About 45,000 fans were expected to turn out in sunny cool weather for the nationally televised (NBC) game starting at noon, (EST). This would be some 24,000 off the all-time record of 69,831 set in this same Municipal Stadium for the third game, July 8, 1955.

For Manager Alvin Dark of the San Francisco Giants this was a chance to get even with Manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees for last year's World Series. Although Dark's Giants took the Yankees down to the last out in October, they lost when Willie McCovey lined a rocket to Bobby Richardson for the final out in the seventh game. Both McCovey and Richardson were on the squads although neither was a starter.

Jim O'Toole, Cincinnati's talented left-hander with a shiny 13-6 record, was Dark's starting pitcher. The Giants' skipper had a capable staff to follow O'Toole. In addition to southpaws Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles, Warren Spahn of Milwaukee, Hal Woodeshick of Houston, the Nationals had right-handers Don Drysdale of Los Angeles, Juan Marichal of San Francisco, rookie Ray Culp of Philadelphia and Larry Jackson of Chicago.

Dark obviously went for the lefty because the American League's starting lineup had four left-handed batters—first baseman Joe Pepitone of New York, second baseman Nellie Fox of Chicago, left fielder Leon Wagner and center fielder Albie Pearson of Los Angeles.

Houk held off on naming his starter until he could talk to the boys in the clubhouse. Ken McEwen of Los Angeles or Jim Bunning of Detroit had been announced as the two probabilities. Bunning had been something special in All-Star games, having pitched eight straight scoreless innings during which he allowed only one hit in the last two years. Houk's other pitchers were Jim Bouton of New York, Bill Monbouquette and Dick Radatz of Boston. Jim Grant of Cleveland, all right-handers, and one southpaw—Juan Pizarro of Chicago.

The American League held a 17-15-1 edge after 33 games but the National had an 11-5-1 winning edge in the last 17 games and 4-1- in the last six.

Kansas City A's May Go to Oakland

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—American League President Joe Cronin confirmed today that Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City club, had expressed interest in an executive session on the eve of the All-Star game in moving his Athletics to Oakland, Calif.

Cronin, however, emphasized that Finley had made "no formal request," to move the A's franchise. It would need at least eight affirmative ballots of the 10 owners to switch the franchise.

The Associated Press had learned exclusively Monday that Finley, rebuffed a year ago in his effort to move the A's to Dallas, was seeking a new home in California.

The Oakland City Council and the Alameda County Board of Supervisors recently approved issuing $25 million in revenue bonds to build a 48,500-seat all-purpose stadium in Oakland. The park, however, is not expected to be completed before 1965.

Horace Stoneham, president of the National League's San Francisco Giants, confirmed that Finley had approached him in an effort to secure the use of the Giants' Candlestick Park until the Oakland stadium was finished.

"Mr. Finley was in to see me 10 days or two weeks ago," Stoneham said in San Francisco. "He asked me if his club could play in Candlestick Park as a starter—until Oakland finished a proposed stadium."

"But I told him it would be better for him to establish himself directly in Oakland. As I understand it, Mr. Finley had talked to and received backing of certain interests in Oakland."

While denying that Finley had formally requested a move, Cronin said: "Mr. Finley discussed with us his problems in Kansas City, as he did a year ago, and expressed an interest in moving to Oakland. I cannot say any more at this time."

Other American League officials, at first hesitant to discuss the matter, acknowledged that a heated discussion had taken place on Finley's proposal. The move took the other owners completely by surprise.

Several American League owners, said privately a Kansas City to Oakland move would be welcomed since it would create a second Pacific Coast team to match the Los Angeles Angels, simplify travel arrangements, reduce costs for everyone and create a strong intra-state rivalry.

The A's, mired in the second division of the American League for the eight years they've been in Kansas City, are troubled with skidding attendance despite the promotional efforts of the fiery Finley, who gained controlling interest in December 1960.

Australian Beats Billie Jean of U.S.

By GEOFFREY MILLER
WIMBLEDON England (AP)—Margaret Smith, the tall and statuesque 29-year-old from Albany, Australia, wore the laurels of two Wimbledon triumphs with coolness and poise today and laid for all time the gibe that she hasn't got the temperament for the big occasion.

She and Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., men's singles champion, were the outstanding personalities of a Wimbledon that had plenty of rain but lacked the colorful players of past tournaments.

Monday, "Big Marge" slaughtered Billie Jean Moffitt, the Californian teen-ager, in the singles final and won the mixed doubles in partnership with Ken Fletcher. She nearly emulated Doris Hart's feat of 12 years ago by taking three titles. She lost the women's doubles to Maria Buenos of Brazil and Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., mainly because her partner, Robyn Ebbens, 18, was too nervous for the occasion.

They used to say that Margaret was nervous, too, but she didn't show it in this tournament. Right from the start of the singles final, she looked more confident than the usually bouncy Billie Jean. The Australian girl won 6-3, 6-4. Billie Jean, who studied all winter and didn't start serious tennis until May, confessed afterwards that you can't concentrate on your education and win top class tennis tournaments, too.

The women's singles final had been postponed from Saturday because of rain. So Margaret didn't have the honor of leading off the Wimbledon ball with McKinley on Saturday night, according to tradition. He danced with his wife, Wylita, instead.
